Daniel 1 NIV

Nebuchadnezzar was the king of Babylon.

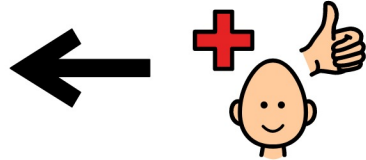

The Babylonians took treasure from God's temple.

They also captured many of God's people and took them back to Babylon. There, King Nebuchadnezzar gave orders to his chief to bring back healthy, handsome and intelligent Israelites to train in the palace.

Daniel and his friends were 4 of those who were brought to the king.

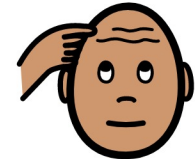

These four men would train for 3 years and eat and drink from the king's table.

The king wanted to shape

all that they thought and did so they could serve in the palace.

The official changed their names.

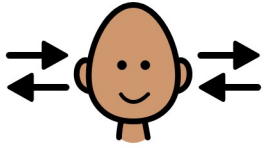

When it came time to eat with the king,

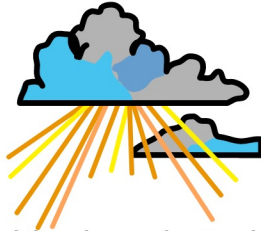

Daniel and his friends

declined because

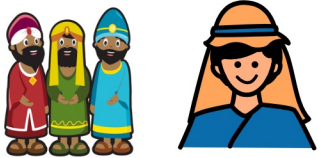

God had made it clear

that it was wrong to eat from the king's table.

But the king's official said they had to eat the king's food to look healthy.

Daniel and his friends asked for only vegetables and water for 10 days.

They wanted to be tested to see if they'd be healthy after the 10 days.

God rewarded

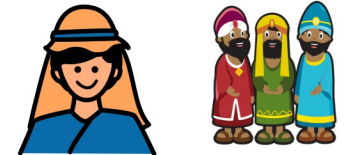

Daniel and his friends

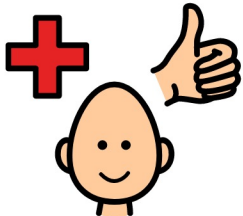

for staying true to their faith and what was right.

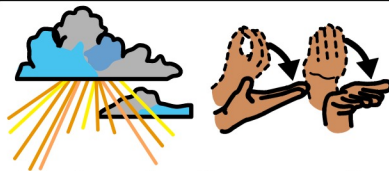

After the 10 days of eating only vegetables and drinking water,

Daniel and his friends were healthier than the others.

During the 3 years of training, God had given them knowledge and understanding

and they began to serve the king.
